

School of Public Health and Health Services

Student Ambassador Form

2007-2008

Name Shaun Reddy
Home Town: Virginia Beach, VA.
Email: Reddys@gwu.edu		Current Degree Sought : Masters of Exercise Science, Grad. Certificate in Health Promotion
Current Program: Exercise, Nutrition, and Eating Behavior
Degrees Earned	Major	College/University
B.B.A.	Finance	James Madison University
Work Experience	Job Title	Organization/Website
May Company	Retail Buyer	Hechts Department Stores
Sterling	Personal Trainer
Volunteer Experience	Title	Organization/Website
Gay Men's Health Crisis	Program Promotions
Migrant Education	English/Spanish Tutor
Avon Walk	Crew Member
Honors/Awards
Pastimes: Cycling, Weight-Training, Yoga, Cooking, Reading
My Future Goals: Open a personal training studio that promotes achievement of overall health as prime motivator for staying fit.
What's best about the School of Public Health and Health Services at GW: The faculty – everyone is interested in students' professional interests and in the faculty's role in promoting those interests/goals.
What's best about living in the Washington, DC Area: D.C. is the home of health policy and all of the major government departments related to health promotion. It makes for a very dynamic learning environment for public health students. I enjoy the ease it is to attend conferences, symposiums, or presentations on all topics due to simply being located in Washington D.C.
My message to applicants: If you want the most dynamic learning experience while studying public health, attend GWU's SPHHS. You will receive instruction from experts within their field and will have tremendous opportunity to become actively engaged with professionals working in your respective public health arena.		